

This is a rare genetic disorder that affects both males and females equally. So far reports of about 50 patients have been published in various databases/ publications. These patients are from families with various ethnic backgrounds from the USA, European and South American countries.