

Classic infantile CLN1 disease affects males and females in equal numbers. In the United States, classic infantile CLN1 disease along with other forms of neuronal ceroid lipofuscinosis occurs in approximately three in 100,000 live births. Classic infantile CLN1 disease occurs with greater frequency in Finland where its prevalence is estimated to be 1 in 190,000.