

The exact prevalence of SMARD1 is currently unknown. Studies show that diaphragmatic paralysis affects about 1% percent of individuals diagnosed with early onset spinal muscular atrophy. As of 2015, greater than 60 cases of SMARD1 have been described in scientific literature.