

FVS affects males and females in equal numbers. There is a 20-fold increase in neural tube defects, cleft lip and palate, cardiovascular abnormalities, genitourinary defects, developmental delay, endocrine disorders, limb defects, and autism, when VPA is used during the 1st trimester of pregnancy compared to no use of antiepileptic drugs.