

It has become easier to distinguish SCD from other disorders as for all children born in the US get tested for SCD at birth. In older patients and immigrants, SCD should be considered in those with anemia and / or recurrent pain, especially if they have family from the regions sickle cell is most common (for example Africa, and regions listed above). The diagnosis is easily confirmed with simple blood tests.