

Since diabetes mellitus and optic atrophy usually begin before the age of 16, Wolfram syndrome is typically diagnosed in childhood to adolescence. However, onset of key symptoms or the genetic confirmation can come much later in some patients. Wolfram syndrome affects males and females in equal numbers.