

The diagnosis of KCNQ2E is ultimately made by molecular genetic testing. This can be done by examining only the potassium channel gene or by sending testing that looks for sequence changes in a number of genes associated with epilepsy in infancy.